

Meet Peter David Rona, a remarkable individual with a passion for building strong communities. Born on April 11, 1955, Peter's journey has been filled with accomplishments and valuable experiences that have shaped him into the person he is today. Allow me to share some highlights from his impressive background.

Peter excelled academically, graduating in the top 3% from Olympus High School. He continued his educational journey and earned a dual degree in Marketing and Business Management from what is now known as Ensign College in 1975. During his time there, Peter's dedication and hard work caught the attention of Fred S. Ball, the president of the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce. Together, they collaborated on a downtown Salt Lake City shopping project, which received recognition in the Salt Lake Tribune. Notably, Fred Auerbach from Auerbach's department store saw the value in their work and implemented their ideas.

Peter's commitment to his community extends beyond his professional achievements. He has served as a Utah state and county delegate from 1994 to 1999, actively participating in the democratic process of our federal constitutional republic. Additionally, Peter is a proud parent of four children and has dedicated his time to various church callings. He has also worked alongside Mayor Braegger and Mayor Mote on the annual day of service, exemplifying his devotion to making a positive impact in his community.

Prior to his retirement, Peter spent 13 years as a manufacturer's representative, serving US military base commissaries and exchanges across multiple states. Eager for a new challenge, he embarked on a different path as a single father, raising three children between the ages of 2 and 6. During this time, Peter worked for the Salt Lake County constable's office as a Licensed Investigator and Process Server, showcasing his unwavering commitment to both his family and his professional responsibilities.

In the past 14 months, Peter's unique skills have been put to use as he served on the high school 50-year reunion committee. With determination and resourcefulness, he successfully tracked down and contacted over 250 classmates from their graduating class of 720. Peter's ability to connect with people and to effectively navigate complex situations has been honed through his life experiences. He firmly believes in getting things "Right ON", striving for excellence and earning an A+ in all endeavors.

At the core of Peter's personal mission statement is his unwavering dedication to the greater good. He believes in listening attentively, carefully considering all perspectives, and conducting thorough research thus making informed decisions and then taking immediate action. His goal is to ensure that his community as a whole benefits from his choices, not just a select few. Peter's motto, "GET IT RIGHT," encapsulates his unwavering commitment to achieving positive outcomes for everyone involved.

In conclusion, Peter David Rona is a persuasive and friendly individual who has dedicated his life to serving his community. With a wealth of experiences and an unwavering passion for doing what is best for all, Peter is ready to make a difference. Let's support him as he strives to bring about positive change and make things "Right ON A!"
